Dear Friends,

The power of people at camp is immense. Many campers come to camp not knowing anyone, but because of the non-competitive atmosphere and abundant opportunities to mix with a variety of people, friendships form. There is close interaction on canoe and hiking trips, fun together in activities, walking together on the way to the Cobb Dining Hall, laughing together at EP's or rehearsing for the musical play. Not everyone makes friends easily, but camp is an excellent playing field to learn skills on how to reach out to help others. It is a place where campers gain confidence with their social skills.

Many campers idolize their counselors, therefore a staff person has the opportunity to be an influential, positive role model. Counselors are often a catalyst for helping campers feel comfortable in a new environment. This includes how to interact with others, to be kind, to be respectful and be tolerant.

We hope you enjoy thinking about your camp friends or counselors. Please notify us if you would like to be back in touch with a Wyonegonic friend from the past. If we have current contact information we would like to assist you in connecting with camp friends.

There are many stories from our people across the nation and throughout the 72 countries that have populated Wyonegonic and called Moose Pond their summer home. We never tire of hearing those stories.

- ~ Who was in Abbie Wescott's wedding, a celebration at Wyonegonic this Fall? The groom was a Winona summer boy friend; three of the bridesmaids were camp friends; the Justice of the Peace, his camp director.
- ~ Which group of CITs from the 1980s still unite annually for a "ladies" weekend and sing camp songs?
- ~ Which counselor visited camp with a past camper to climb Pleasant Mountain this summer? Then met another camper from in NYC for a "shopping spree," lunch and walk through the Natural Museum of History.
- ~ Who went off to college with her best friend?
- ~ Who is anxious to rendezvous with camp friends after being out of the country for a career in International work?
- ~ Who has found a friend on "face book" and rekindled a camp friendship?

Most of all CAMP IS ABOUT PEOPLE. Friends are usually the number one reason why campers return to camp each summer. Camp friends influence returning staff.

Greetings from ALL the Sudduths and your Wyonegonic friends,

The Sudduths

The Wyonegonic experience is a gift of time, that helps us know ourselves better, so we can reach out to help others. At camp we grow in a sense of self:

- SELF-AWARE
- SELF-ESTEEM
- SELFLESSNESS
- SELF-SUFFICIENCY
- SELF-DETERMINATION
- SELF-EXPRESSION
- SELF-CONFIDENCE
- SELF-ASSURANCE
- SELF-DISCOVERY
- SELF-CONTENTMENT
