ADDRESS SERVICE REQUESTED

TAKE TIME OUT . . .

. . . TO SING LULLABYES

April 1, 2005

Dear Wyonegonic Families,

Last August the Boston Globe printed an article written by Michael Thompson, author of two well known books on youth development

Raising Cain: Protecting the Emotional Life of Boys
The Pressured Child: Helping Your Child to Achieve Success in School and in Life

A few of our Key Staff heard Michael Thompson speak at a conference last October and we raved about his wisdom. I wish to share the article with you. If you were able to read this article last summer, it is worth reading again; if you did not, here is your chance . . .

I went to Vermont for a week this summer and rediscovered a fantastic lost world of family traditions. A world where people sit down and eat three meals together every day, serving their food from platters and talking with one another throughout the meal. A world where 10 year olds set the table for dinner and clear it, without complaint. A world where 13-year old boys don't play video games every night or watch TV or sit in front of computers.

Instead they lie in bed and read - comic books, novels, sometimes even grown up novels. In this world 11-year-old girls walk together holding hands as easily as they laugh and talk. No frenzied instant messaging here. Instead they sing. Every morning as they make their beds and sweep out their rooms, they sing together. One girl starts a song, and others join in spontaneously.

Of course this fantasy world is not a lost one. It is summer camp.

When I visited a camp for a week last month, some 40 years since I last attended one, I was struck hard by how rarely children engage in these activities anywhere else: not in schools, not in neighborhoods, not in families. Summer camps are one of the last places that kids can learn the so-called "family values" that hard pressed families no longer have time to teach.

Doubtless, fun and friends are an important part of the camp experience, and the children I saw were having fun. But fun was not at the core of the camper's psychological experience.

From my viewpoint, three valuable elements dominated the campers' days. They were living in a multigenerational community, they were following hallowed rituals that were universally respected, and they had a lot of downtime. Ritual surrounded every aspect of the day, from wake-up reveille and tent inspection to the day's end with taps and a lullaby.

Yes, lullaby. At 9:30 p.m. we senior staff members stood together singing a version of the Brahms lullaby with camp lyrics to a circle of tents in the woods. The children were asleep by 9:45 p.m., and they slept solidly until 7:30 when the ritual changing of the bell woke them again.

Is there anywhere else in the United States where children, ages 8-15, hear a lullaby every night? Is there anywhere where 14-year olds reliably get 10 hours of sleep at night?

Whatever else our children find at camp, the painful truth is that we often send them away to experience aspects of family life they can't find at home anymore.

After all, there can't be too many family dinners when you're driving your children to the 90-game ice hockey schedule required of 13-year olds on the select ice hockey teams of North Andover.

You can't have much of an evening ritual when children watch TV or play computer games right up until bedtime. And there isn't much down-time in a family where the children are immersed in music lessons, tutoring, martial arts, town sports, SAT prep courses and more.

The only place a child from a high pressured family can enjoy some peace and quiet and perhaps a good night's sleep (with a lullaby) is away from home.

Why does it matter? Because children need it. Children don't develop because they are pushed, prodded and pressured to develop for sports teams or "good" colleges. Development is their biological and psychological imperative. It is the job of adults to create environments where children have the time, freedom, and safety to grow up at their own pace.

In Vermont I was struck by the fact that summer camp provides something that is in short supply in our fast-paced worlds: respected ritual, time for the generations to get to know one another, and the opportunity to take a nap or read a book after lunch each day. I hope camps like these can maintain their traditions in the face of the frantic, competitive zeitgeist of Modern America.

I'm worried they will all become specialized (and driven) learning camps, teaching Division 1 sports skills or computer skills. I hope not. I plan to go back next summer and do some singing. I don't seem to have time for it around my house." Michael Thompson

We would like to assure Mr. Thompson and anyone reading this article that Wyonegonic will remain a traditional resident camp allowing campers to choose activities; provide a focus on waterfront activities, canoe and hiking trips and a property maintained to keep the fundamentals of simple living a part of the camp experience. Girls will walk hand in hand down the cabin line. Campers will read, write letters and sing. Traditions enjoyed by thousands for over a century will be woven in to the daily lives of the 250 campers that visit the shores of Moose Pond each summer.

Candlelight anyone? Come join us August 15th and sing with the staff after the ceremony as we visit each cabin with our lit candles and close harmony bidding the campers a sound sleep, farewell and a productive school year.

Warm regards,

Steve Sudduth

CAMP DIRECTOR'S DREAM

We are proud to tell you about two special people on the Wyonegonic staff - both RNs who have been with Wyonegonic ten consecutive summers. Although this summer they earn their Wiggie Chairs for 10 years of service, our gratitude reaches far deeper as directors, staff and camper community... Donna and Jill have helped us all enjoy healthy and safe summers at Wyonegonic.

JILL GASPERINI arrived at Wyonegonic in 1996 with her two children, Taya and Paul. Jill learned about our need for a nurse through her sister-in-law Kathy, who had spent summers as a nurse at Winona. Jill was captured by the opportunity for her children and loved the out-of-doors and a chance to use her nursing skills in the camp environment. Jill says, "I wish camp was all year round." For a few summers Jill maintained her supervisory position at a Boston hospital and arranged her time so she could be a camp nurse for half a summer. The last five years she has been with us for the entire summer and broadened her role as a key staff member. Jill directed Junior Camp for two summers and currently is on our key staff team and supports Unit Directors, camp administration and supervises the Wyonegonic Health Center, offering relief on days off and time off. Jill received her B.S.N. from the University of Maryland and a Master's Degree in Nursing Administration at the University of Washington in Seattle. She has held various jobs in clinical nursing, as well as recruitment, supervision, school nursing and currently is an adjunct professor supervising nursing students at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. Jill loves to hike and last August she prepared for a climb up 14,000 Mt Rainier. She was turned around with howling 40 m/p/h winds, sleet, rain and no visibility. That experience has spurred her on to want to hike more and she has her eye on the 4,000 footers in the White Mountains of NH. If all goes well, she will be half way through the 48 peaks by the end of Fall. Jill also enjoys wind surfing, biking, skiing and traveling with her family. Jill and her husband Gerard live in Lexington MA.

DONNA PATTERSON arrived in 1996 as Junior Unit Director. She had leadership experience in the Girl Scouts and also loved the out of doors. Donna lives in Lansdale PA with her husband Joe and four children, Carlyn, Sara, Katie and Joey. Donna's children range in age from 21 to 13 and they have all been involved at camp over her years of service. She has worked in the Wyonegonic Health Center full time since 1997 until last summer when her work schedule changed. She began commuting from Pennsylvania to work a four day a week camp nurse job at Wyonegonic. She combined this with her clinical work, three days a week, as a pediatric nurse practitioner, in the area of her home in Willow Grove, PA. "I just can't imagine a summer without Moose Pond swims," said Donna. So, every Wednesday night she flew to Maine to work 4 days before stepping on a plane to return to her pediatric nurse practitioner responsibilities in PA Monday afternoon. Donna received a B.S.N. from Thomas Jefferson University, an M.S.N. in Maternal Child Health at the University of Delaware, and a PHD and pediatric nurse practitioner certificate from the University of Pennsylvania. Although Donna's primary responsibility is as a nurse practitioner, she previously taught at Villanova and continues to teach undergraduate and graduate nursing students at U. of Penn and Gwynedd Mercy College. Besides swimming, Donna likes to kayak, bike and ski. The family tries to take a week before Christmas each year to ski together at a snowy New England Resort.

THE COBB YEARS

Joan St Clair Goodhew says "Wyonegonic is the only place that doesn't change." She loves the idea of preserving Pleasant Mountain and she hopes that her granddaughter will be able to enjoy summers on Moose Pond soon. Anne Gardner Annex came to pick up her granddaughter Tegan and enjoyed seeing her old stomping ground in action. "Having time at a beautiful place with order and peace and caring people is a great asset." Ginnie Cobb Thiibodeaux is grateful for all the wonderful traditions that are being passed on to the next generation. Her granddaughter Michele was a camper last summer and intends to return for 7 weeks. Ginny enjoys sharing Kendall Lion's "The First Hundred Years" book and hearing Michele sing songs, talk about the trips, share stories about thunderstorms and meals served at the Cobb Lodge. Ginnie wants to know if anyone remembers a ring-silver band with a green enamel paddle soldered around the band. I have never seen one but Ginny has one and wonders if others do. Louise and Bunny Bowen spotted Wyo campers in the Portland airport in June when they were in Maine for Bunny's daughter's wedding. Harriet "Hat" Henderson coaxed her married daughter and husband to drive to Denmark and visit camp when they were close by in Portland on a business trip. "Hat" now sports a new Wyo shirt. She enjoyed their first hand report after her absence of 50 years.

Lucy Sanderson Carney writes of her Mom's, Lucy Pratt Fackner, recent passing in Bethesda. "Mom loved Wyonegonic and made sure I too spent ten wonderful summers on Moose Pond. It was a beautiful, inspirational summer experience which lasts a lifetime and beyond." Katy Angstadt went on a church mission trip to the Dominican Republic. She also continues to raise monies for the Avon Breast Cancer Walk. She will again be there on crew team cheering the walkers as she recovers from foot surgery. Katy reports that sister Liz Angstadt will marry this fall. I was able to visit with Katy, Liz and Lisa Cook at Catherine Strout Lindsey's memorial service in Darien last February. Teddy Rupp came to the Fryeburg Fair in October with Ora Brine. After the event, they joined Carol for Saturday dinner at the Farmhouse. Susan Kamm Connors reported that her husband John, enjoyed his trip to Maine in late September to participate in the 50 mile bike trek, a fund raiser for Loon Echo Land Trust. It was a beautiful ride through winding Maine back roads during fall foliage season. The Maine countryside is hard to beat in the fall. Carol Wiggins Kamm and Bill have moved temporarily in Williamsburg until they move to independent living in the Fall. They saw folk singers, Paul and his wife in a music festival in Ft Lauderdale. They visited with son Chris in Philadelphia in February. They are happy to see the Connors grand girls often. Catherine is stepping off to college and is a counselor at Wyo; Elizabeth is studying her bassoon as she focuses on studies in music. Rebecca Wiggin Preston of Jefferson ME is 101 and according to her son, has wonderful memories of Wyonegonic. She lives happily with household help and an amazingly sharp mind.

Lee Louitt Tauck
with Liz's Tauck Walters' twins

Janice Dunlop Baroody cherished her friendship with Alice VanKrevelin who passed away last summer. Janice felt responsible for steering Alice to Wyo in 1947 where she contributed several years of key leadership. Skip Gentry who summers in Maine extended her visit through the holidays as her condo in Vero Beach received water damage from hurricanes. She enjoyed happy times with the growing grandchildren, two of them now in college. Jean McMullan and Andy are washed out of their condo for a year as repairs are under way in Vero Beach from not one, but two hurricanes. Ironically "Jean" was the one that really did the damage. Jean and Andy are in a rental home in the same neighborhood and Andy is conducting two of the ACO concerts this season as he transitions into retirement. I have just spent four days with Jean at American Camp Association meetings in Orlando and she sends warm greetings to her Wyonegonic friends. She also reports that Helen Cobb continues to do quite nicely in her retirement setting in Vero. Helen enjoys sports on TV and has ongoing needle point projects.

Chloe King is enjoying lots of traveling in her retirement and golf when the weather is good. She had a grand nephew at Winona last summer. Chloe is hopeful Pleasant Mountain will be preserved. "Part of the joy of being at Wyo was feeling like being in a place where everything is serene and life moves happily at a different pace." Chris Frank Krok has retired from teaching and is traveling a bit. She also showed one of their Boston Terriers in a recent show. Mary Hobler Hyson exhibits photography near home in Connecticut and does volunteer work at the local elementary school. The Hyson family enjoyed a Santa Barber CA visit with her sister last spring, came to Bridgton as usual this summer and in March the six Hysons met in Disney World. Irene Mack Goodspell and her husband winter in Florida and summer in Canada. She is completing the Boynton Beach Fire Rescue 7 week course so she can help with Community Emergency Response Team. She is also playing the kazoo and tambourine in the Fun Band in Leisureville.

Mary Trafton wrote that she was considering attending a birthday celebration in England for her good camp friend Katharine E. Bird who celebrated birthday #90 in February. Mary's daughter Gina would accompany her if she went. Lynne Cooper Sitton is recovering from health complications this past year but reports that she has had a story published, "But Lord, I was Happy Shallow." Margie Pool Driscoll is still managing a real estate office. She receives much joy spending time with her 6 grandsons and watching her three daughters mothering skills. She feels blessed they all have supportive husbands. Lee Louitt Tauck has sold her Denver home and is now in Naples FL where she happily survived "Charlie" without damage. She is also a proud grandmother of additional grandchildren. Daughter Liz had twins in Seattle recently. Mary Ellen Daniels McCormick's husband has built a canoe and kayak, perfect for their lakeside home in Wisconsin. She enjoys traveling to see her grandchildren in CA and Salt Lake City. Barbara Vinal writes Wyo with thanks for the many wonderful years of camping for the Duprey and Hoehling families. Her Mother, Mary Duprey Hoehling passed away just before her 90th birthday.

Katie Jacobs Eyres is still involved with her group practice but allows time for book club, tennis and fitness classes. The three boys are progressing through their education at Williams, Harvard law and Tufts Medical. Betty Baxter Sterard saw her oldest grandson graduate from Boston College in June. All is well with her family and she will be traveling this spring. Jill Borland Flynn writes from California, "thanks to Wyo for making her a better person." Janice Reycroft died two weeks before the age 110. She remained active through her senior years. For example: paddled the Saco River at age 89, walked the six mile Carlise Trail from Carlisel to Concord when 93, was still playing 18 holes of golf at age 90 . . . she participated in the Senior Olympics at age 100 and trained daily for the walking event. Catherine Lindsey passed away on her 84th birthday. The following poem was found among many things she wrote during her creative years. Cathy was still actively involved in their community theater until her death. Daughters Missy Lindsey, Mary Sewall Lindsey Woods and Catie Lindsey Olinsky were able to spend time with their Mom during her short illness.

POEM for CHAPEL by Catherine Strout Lindsey

I press my nose on the window pane
And watch the yellow lightening slice the rain.
I'm safe and dry but it is boring inside,
I want to be out and race with the tide.
Shhh, it's quieter already.
The rain is not nearly so steady.
Look, there's the sun peeking over the hill
And raindrops are falling,
but they're ever so still.
I want to go out, I will, I will!
See, the sun makes a shadow
on my window sill!
I rush outside and bang the door!
Please, oh please, don't rain anymore!
The grass is wet and the air is clean.
My gracious, that's the weirdest thing
I've ever seen!
Come everyone and see what I see!
It seems to reach out over the sea.
It's a rainbow, I think and it's all green and pink and blue
And purple and orange too.
I want to follow it and ride on the blue,
It makes me feel happy and excited and new.
It's promising beauty and morning dew.

Dee Apted Grover and Bill moved from their home of 34 years down the street to a new 1803 home. Sally Barnes Sonne celebrated a recent special birthday in Naples Fl with friends. In February they were scheduled to travel to Chili and then she hoped to join her husband on a few hikes in New England and New York State as he checks off more mountains on his list of 4000 footers.

Randi Barrett continues to train her chocolate lab in national competitions for agility racing. Hazel does the ropes, hurdles and slalom gates among 20 obstacles. Positive reinforcement is the key - just like camp. Martha Murray's, a busy lawyer is adjusting to their empty nest. Daughter Caroline started her freshman year at Pamona College with a canoe trip on the Colorado River. Muffin sent Wyo a pair of shorts worn by all her siblings. She says that name tapes speak of each personality as Mom delegated the job to each daughter, Barbara, Jane, Muffin as they went off to camp. The shorts look surprisingly good after decades of camp laundry. Virginia Taber McCamey writes of how special Pleasant Mountain was to her family, who started at Winona when her Dad was at Brown. She is grateful that she and her daughter Eleanor McCamey Lund had such special times at Wyonegonic on Moose Pond. Muriel Jones Corbett writes that her almost 20 years at Wyonegonic were an important part of growing up. "Memories are many and varied from: the watermelon seed spitting contests on July 4th; Sunday Grove Services; Sunday Evening Hymn sings; the gathering of canoes with lanterns on the stems; the war canoe; those horrible itchy serge 16 pleat bloomers with black stockings; the joy of graduating to green shorts!" Her son, who visited last Fall brought her a copy of the 100th Anniversary book which she has enjoyed.

Jennifer Conlin has written a humor book about over parenting, complete with tongue and cheek photos of nine different family stereotypes. The book is called The Perfect Parents Handbook and was helped along by many of her old Wyo friends. Anne Judge Favaloro edited the final draft, Sara Judge arranged some Connecticut book signings, Sarah Moore allowed a picture of she and her son, Henry, to appear in the book, and Lian Dolan interviewed her on her Satellite Sisters radio show. "Thank you so much Wyo!" writes Jennifer. Her book is available on Amazon.com Jen Colin starts year 18 abroad, although her two girls are at Wyonegonic in the summer. Carol Thacher writes she has changed to a larger law firm in Minneapolis and practices law about 50% of the time, allowing her to pursue her interests in grandchildren, biking and traveling. Heidi Froehling and Kaladi Island. Sophie Beal has a Fulbright Grant to study literature in Maputo, Mozambique for a year. Ronnie Britt Wardlaw hopes to stop in Maine with her two year old daughter for a visit this summer.

Heidi Froehling reports that she is balancing life with baby daughter, Kaladi, and running her own business, The Bamboo Tree. Kaladi is "drop dead gorgeous and her parents are over the moon as the new journey begins." Heidi, Simone Carroll and Lucy Willis represented Wyonegonic at a counselor fair in Sydney and helped Wyonegonic hire two new Aussie counselors. Since that time Simone Carroll has decided to return to Wyo for a key position in Senior and Lucy Willis will return for year number three, deferring her college one more year to make camp possible. When Heidi visited Anthea Richardson, Anthea was organizing pool games for toddlers - especially her daughter Maya, 18 months. Anthea is expecting a second child.

Wendy Clark Wescott and Abbie enjoyed a road trip across country last Fall and stopped to visit John and Jody Schlacter and their two children. Wendy continues to enjoy her hospice work as a bereavement counselor for Home and Hospice Care of RI. She enjoys quilting and escaping to their Maine cottage of Kezar Pond. She promises to check her email w.wescott@cox.net once a week. David Wescott is working with Discover Warren, a business group promoting the town. He spends his time rehabilitating buildings Diane White Mealo and her daughter Olivia escaped the Orlando August heat and came to visits grandparents in Maine. They stopped by for lunch and a walk through camp. Diane has just completed her masters degree at the U of Florida. Becky and Roger Parsons of NH stopped by the Farmhouse for a visit on their return from Bowdoin College where one of their three sons is in attendance. Tessa Mansfield is working in London but has long lasting memories of her one summer in Junior Camp. Nigel Roberts who teaches in Wales writes that summer finds thoughts drifting back to Wyonegonic. Allison Forbes graduated from Dartmouth and taught kayaking in Colorado last summer. Sister Avery will join the Wyonegonic staff in 05. Avery Forbes attends Bowdoin College.

time. Sofia Laca has recommended friends from Madrid who will have two daughters with us. She hopes to have children to send to camp some day. Sally Ledbetter spent the summer in Westport MA and a week on a sailboat in the British Virgin Isles as she contemplated nursing or graduate school back in California. Alison Bevin Love has found that Wyonegonic camp songs are a wonderful baby "calming technique" for daughter Madeline. As the mother this puts her back in the Moose Pond groove paddling a canoe with a stuffed backpack being the weight of the world. Barb Hollis continues to run a successful golf tournament fund raiser in Chris's name for "Make A Wish Foundation." The Hollis' spent summer weekends on Moose Pond in their trailer. They enjoy seeing their grandchildren love Wyo and Winona. Barb has had a winter of rehab revolving around knee replacement. She has spent some time in Florida and managed a little golf. Her daughter Jennifer Hollis

Perkins and four children are in the Reading home while Jen's husband finishes a double masters program in Syracuse NY. They have just moved to housing on Hanscom Air Force Base this spring. Sue Louis is teaching in an elementary school in Norway ME. She reports that her niece Wendy is getting married this summer.

In 1994 Madeline Lane returned for two years as an ecology counselor while a college student at U of ME Orono. Madeleine now lives in Bridgton, ME.. "Wyo instilled in me a deep appreciation for Maine's ecology. I became a lifeguard and Trip Leader and learned the art of silently canoeing at night to get closer to the loons. It was at camp I learned to paint a picture of the sun setting behind a mountain; it was in the pine grove that I learned about majestic pines and the mandela or kaleidoscope effect they make when you lie on your back and look up at the sky. The elusive barred owl who hoots at night and leaves occasional feathers on the path made his presence known Maybe she will come back to share her love of ecology with future campers. Jamie Gaudion reports good hiking surrounding them in Foxcroft Me. Daughter Alexia is working in Philadelphia as a clinical research assistant. Amy Bonnefond was married on the campus of Kents Hill School and works at the academy. Husband Jim is a teacher and coach. Besides bridesmaid Lindsay Conney Luetje there were a handful of Wyonegonic cheerleaders at the ceremony. The couple is now building a home near Kents Hill. Chuck Steward sold his herefords after years on his Central enjoying time on the Bowdoin campus in Maine and will return as a Wyo counselor. She sees Avery Forbes on campus. Avery will also be on the counseling staff. Shantrel Lindorff and Georgia Harris are stirring up trouble in Melbourne but having lots of fun with camp yarns and tales. There is serious talk about working in a summer at Wyo in '06 plus more travels around the world - including the SeaDog Ballpark in Portland.

"REACHING THE TOP"

UPDATE ON PLEASANT MOUNTAIN PURCHASE BY LOON ECHO LAND TRUST

Dear Friends,

For all of us that love to climb mountains, we know that the challenging peaks are hard work. We also know the sense of pride when we reach the top, that glorious feeling of "We made it! Isn't the view beautiful?" I am in awe every time I reach the top of Pleasant Mountain, no matter how clear the view of Mt. Washington, how pesky the mosquitoes, how windy the northwest rock face, how outrageously beautiful the radiant glow of sunset, how mellow the rising sun at dawn as it gently offers us a new day of opportunities.

Loon Echo Land Trust has nearly reached the goal of 1.5 million dollars in their campaign to save Pleasant Mountain for all of us. Thanks to the kind generosity of Wyonegonic and Winona alumna, the campaign has raised 1.375 million dollars. We are working hard to reach the top!

The Ordway family, owners and directors of Camp Winona have gifted 160 acres toward the Lakes Region Legacy, capital campaign, an effort to preserve Pleasant Mountain. The parcel directly abuts the 1,288 acres of land that LELT purchased in 2003 from a private land owner. Many of you may be familiar with the Bald Peak hiking trail, Needles Eye and Bald Peak; all of which are part of the Ordway parcel.

"The Ordway family is delighted to donate our Pleasant Mountain properties to help preserve Pleasant Mountain and Moose Pond for future generations. Protection of the mountain - its ecosystems, views and public recreational activities - are crucial to maintaining the quality of life in the Lake Region."

If you would like to learn more about Loon Echo Land Trust, and the progress of the campaign please check www.loonecholandtrust.org or call their office 207-647-4352. Carol or Steve Sudduth are happy to help with questions also at 800-697-0003.

If you still intend to give, or wish to supplement your original gift, you can send your tax deductible contribution to the Wyonegonic Office. Please help us reach the top so we can celebrate the achievement this summer with others that have given. Checks should be made payable to LELT. MasterCard or Visa are also acceptable!

With thanks - Carol

Wyonegonic Family Camp Questions & Answers

Who comes?

"Family" in family camp is broadly interpreted. Singles are welcome, family groups, reunion groups, significant others, single parents . . . We have between 100-125 folks at one time.

Why do alumnae come?

It is a great family time with plenty of activities happening all day or no activity, if you choose. Life is simple, the change of pace a welcome for most. Meals are prepared, phones don't ring, carpools are not necessary . . . Pleasant Mountain and Moose Pond are calling for all ages. Come share something you enjoyed as a child with your family.

Do we have our own cabin?

We assign families to a cabin, yurt, or platform tent (if they request). If you wish to share a cabin with old camp friends or relatives, we will assign you to a duplex. Keep in mind our bathroom facilities and hot showers are centralized. We can accommodate a few families who have special needs.

Will I know anybody?

If you bring somebody you will. Don't forget how easy it is to make friends at camp. About 50% of the families are alumnae; about 75% are returning families, who have been with us from 2 to 20 years. Some just can't stay away and rank it as a high priority every year for their family. We can provide you with contact information for past camp friends you would like to entice.

What do we do every day?

Your choice - you can try our ropes course 35 feet in the air or read the Sunday paper in a canoe as you float on Moose Pond; you can ride a horse through Wyo's trails or rest in a hammock; you can go shopping at LL Beans or bask in the sunshine on the dock.

Can we stay for more than one session?

Of course - as long as we have cabin availability

How is the food?

You would be surprised! Two course breakfast; noon-time buffet complete with salad bar, deli sandwiches, a hot alternative, homemade soup, fruit; vegetarian option for the dinner entree . . .

How cold is it in August?

Layer up when you pack. Chances are you will want your fleece for breakfast and be in your bathing suit or tennis shorts within two hours for the rest of the day.

How do I receive more detail about dates, prices, and availability?

Call us, email us, or you can also check out the Wyo website and download our Family Camp brochure.
